

Attention FDA

It came to my attention that the FDA is being asked to take away my right to sign a medical waiver before purchasing a hearing aid. Instead I would be forced to have a medical exam or hearing test. Here's my views and/or experiences on several related questions?

1. Should I be forced to have a medical exam and/or hearing test before purchasing a hearing aid? If so, should the FDA pay for the exam?

Several years ago I had a hearing test by an audiologist which only revealed what I already felt I knew. And was suggested hearing aids in the $400 to $5000 range. Instead, I opted for Excel's aid at under $300. which has been perfectly satisfactory for my needs. Some people are physically unable to drive to a doctor or hearing specialist, or have had bad experiences they don't want to repeat. For instance ...

Could the FDA take away my Constitutional Right, affirmed by the Supreme Court, to decide for myself my medical exams and treatment?

I think I should be the decision maker for any of my physical needs.

1. I be allowed to purchase hearing aids by mail as I choose?

Under our U.S. Constitution I don't feel this option can be legally denied.
